

The UC Atlas of Global Inequality

<http://ucatlas.ucsc.edu>

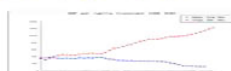

Examples of original Maps and Graphs available through the UC Atlas.

The Atlas of Global Inequality provides a range of resources that can be used in large classes, in sections and by students individually.

- View colorful global maps showing change over the last 40 years in life expectancy, infant mortality, GNP/capita, the incidence of major diseases, global income inequalities, foreign investment, and other measures of global inequality.
- Each map is complemented by concise descriptions and graphics on each of these aspects of global inequality.
- Utilize the interactive database for access to a wide range of economic, health, educational and social indicators for most countries of the world.
- Create your own graphs with the indicators you specify.
